WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

Dr. J. D. Smith, of the City May Become Famous.

HAS INVENTED A PANACEA.

In Experimenting With a Fam-igator He Invents a Marvelous Germicide.

ENTIRELY NEW TO SCIENCE.

It has fallen to the lot of a Paducah doctor to make one of the most wonderful and auspicious discoveries of the century.

Dr. J. D. Smith, of Ninth and Jefferson streets, one of Paducah's foremost physicians, has invented what is without a dissenting voice pronounced by every scientific man who has examined it, one of the most marvelous and potent germicides, or destroyers of germs, known to medical or sanitary science. It is said to be an exterminator that destroys every vestige of disease germ, and if this be true, as a consequence it will prove a panacea of incalculable value to humanity, and a mine of money to the inventor. The familiar names of Koch, Pasteur and other illustrious doctors first become known through discoveries which may prove of much less significance than Dr. Smith's.

The story of his discovery is as simple as it is brief. As recounted to a St. reporter, who asked the doctor to detail the facts, Dr. Smith has for several months past been experimenting with a newly-invented fumigator or purifier, patented by Dr. Cook, of Chicago. At the conclusion of four months of incessant and indefatigable work, he is now enabled to announce the result of his investigations. In speaking of this he said in substance: "The gas generated by the fumigator is a universal insecticide and microbicide, penetrating fabrics of every description, cotton plugs, and even plastered walls, destroying in a few hours every disease producing germ known to science, as well as all other germs, either animal or vegetable. Hence it is a never-failing arrestor of decomposition of any kind, and of the four gases that result from such decomposition."

"As soon as I ascertained the power and adaptability of this gas as a germicide and disinfectant outside the human body, I began to study its possibilities if put in a shape to be used inside the human body. The manner of admitting it into the human body without jeopardy to life was the most difficult task."

"I first began with the inhalation of the gas, diluted with fresh air, directly from the fumigator, in all chronic chest troubles, and with the most gratifying results. At the same time I began a series of test methods for impregnating distilled water with the gas, so as to have an eligible form for internal administration, and for application to diseased surfaces.
After four months of close study and numerous test efforts, I have succeeded, and it is this product, I have found, that destroys every germ, microbe and insect known."

"The fluid, heavily charged with the powerful germicidal gas, can be taken into the stomach of the most delicate infant with as much impunity as can common soda-water, charged, as it is, with equally as deadly a carbonic gas, both being used without the remotest danger to the human life."

"Taken in this form, the gas in the distilled water destroys all germs in the mouth, throat and stomach, and entering the blood by absorption it arrests the development there just as quinine arrests the development of malarial germs or mercury that of some still more serious diseases."

"But in addition to this the fluid, I have found, is so heavily charged with the gas that it can be used for purposes of inhalation with results equally as satisfactory. In all nasal troubles, especially, its inhalation is marked with the most gratifying results. But it is in the diseases of the air passage and lung cavities that it does its greatest work. It acts as a sort of antiseptic dressing, and bears the same relation to the diseased throat, nose and lung that the antiseptic dressing of the physician does to the external wound, improving suppurating cavities when injected."

"To be brief, I have found that the potent gas, impregnating distilled water, will do this and much more, not by virtue of any mysterious or supernatural power, nor because I first discovered it," he interpolated with a smile, "but because it is so ordained by nature."

Dr. Smith says that it is now universally admitted that all diseases are perpetuated by the presence and proliferation of germs, but that the doctors are as a rule slow in recognizing it, although surgeons have known it for a long time. The prevailing custom among most doctors, he says, is to accept nothing new until by its superior merits it forces its way to the front. Dr. Smith thinks that as soon as science learns of this new germicide, his discovery will be given due credit by science, and there will be created a great demand for it.

He values the good that may result to suffering humanity from the discovery, he says, more highly than he does any possible pecuniary advancement that it may entail. Dr. Smith says that in time it will become the remedy for all such diseases as pulmonary consumption, scarlet fever, diphtheria, nasal derangements, etc., for foul sores, and for all diseases communicated only by direct contact. The doctor, in reply to the question of how he could substantiate the claims for his germi-cide, said that he has reports in his possession from a number of the most eminent bacteriologists, including our own state appointee, Dr. Cast-lin. In addition he has several vegetable and mineral specimens.

One of these is a portion of a female breast, with the nipple, which was removed for tumor last July.
Decomposition was at once arrested and it has been lying on a shelf all these months, just like it was then.
Wheat, tobacco, and other vegetable products have been similarly treated, having the germicide applied when decomposition was far advanced.
Dr. Smith's most remarkable experiment, however, was on a colored man who was nearly dead of consumption. His name is Robert Johnson, of South Eighth street, a rouser on the Fowler. He had been having hemorrhages for two weeks, one lung was half gone, and he was given up by other physicians, and Dr. Smith said he too, would have told the man he would die if he didn't wanted to experiment on him.
This was before he had tried the newly-invented fluid. He began giving Johnson the fluid, and now he is up and walking about the streets.
His lung has not been restored, and cannot be, but the disease germs, it is claimed, have all been killed.
By the same gases it is claimed that human bodies can be preserved almost forever by an application, being a quick mode of embalming them.

THE COURT HOUSE.

Circuit Court Finally Adjourns
This Afternoon.

Had a Long Session—Other Items
About the Court House.

Circuit court adjourned this afternoon after an eight weeks' session devoted to civil cases. Very little of interest was done today, and few cases of any importance have come up at all at this term of court.

This afternoon a motion for a new trial was made by the defendant in the case of Mary Walsh against the Paducah Street Railway Company. The plaintiff was injured in a street car, and was awarded a verdict for $300. The motion had not been decided at press time.

Judge Bishop stated to a St. reporter this afternoon that he would render no decision in the cow case until after the Marshall county circuit court, which will not be until after four weeks have elapsed.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Mr. C. S. Robinson, formerly a Drummer, Dies in Kuttawa.

Mr. Chas. S. Robinson, formerly a well known jewelry drummer, who for ten years traveled out of Cincinnati, died suddenly at his home in Kuttawa last night.

The deceased had abandoned the road, and was in the gent's furnishing business at Kuttawa. He at one time kept a drug store there, but sold out some time since and began traveling again. About eighteen months ago he went into business again.

He was about 55 years of age, and leaves a wife and son. His wife was formerly Miss Lennie Duke, of Hartford, Ky.

GENERAL LEE INSULTED.

Grand and Imposing Will Be the Inauguration Ceremonies.

$300,000 FIRE AT CANTON, OHIO.

New York, Feb. 27.—The acceptance by King George, of Greece, of Russia's ultimatum, requiring the withdrawal of his troops from Crete within three days has been announced.

INSULT TO GEN. LEE.

Great Indignation Among Americans Over the Incident.

Havana, Feb. 27.—There is great indignation among Americans resident here over an insult offered consul General Lee by the Spanish Secretary. The incident arose because the censor refused to pass a dispatch for the correspondents which said that the release of Carlos Scott, the American had been demanded because he had been arrested and kept in prison in defiance of law.

"Who told you that?" shouted Gen. Pinarola, secretary of state for the island.
"Gen. Lee," replied a correspondent calmly.
"Gen. Lee is a liar, an imposter and a rebel," shouted the little Marquis with an oath.

AN IMPOSING INAUGURAL.

Preparations for a Grand Affair at the Capitol.

Washington, Feb. 27.—Preparations are complete for the most imposing inaugural ceremonies ever witnessed at the national capital.
People have already begun to arrive and by the first of the week it is expected the city will be filled with visitors and the hotels and boarding houses will be filled to overflowing long before the great day. There will be more uniformed organizations and other tributaries of a great pageant than have ever been seen.
Several members of the new cabinet to be here already here.

MCKINLEY IMPROVING.

The President-Elect Will be Able to Go to Washington.

Canton, Feb. 27.—There has been not a little uneasiness for fear Mr.
McKinley would not be able to be at Washington on inauguration day, and telegrams have been received daily from all parts of the country making inquiries. All may rest perfectly easy.

The President-elect has been improving steadily and will be able to leave for Washington on Monday.

PROBABLY HOLT.

So Says the Prevailing Opinion at Frankfort.

Frankfort, Feb. 27.—"Tips" are flying hither and yon on the subject of the Senatorship. It is generally believed Governor Bradley will appoint either Holt, Yerkes or Boyle, but the friends of Gus Wilson still insist that he will prove the winner.
The general opinion, however, seems to be that Judge Holt will be appointed. The announcement is expected on Thursday.

A ST. LOUIS BANK.

The First Bank Failure to Occur in That City.

St. Louis, Feb. 27.—The Mullanphy Savings Bank closed its doors this morning, being the first failure among the banks of this city since the financial depression began. The Mullanphy bank had a capital of $100,000, and according to a recent statement average deposits of $875,000.
The depositors will certainly lose heavily.

Father O'Callaghan Dead.

Bardonia, Ky., Feb. 27.—Father O'Callaghan, the oldest Catholic priest in the state of Kentucky, and a brother to "miser" Jerry O'Callaghan, of Owensboro, died this morning at Loretto.

APPROACHING MARRIAGE.

Removed That One Will Take Place Tonight.

Mrs. Lizzie Corbett-Thomas, a well known and talented young lady of North Seventh street, daughter of the late Mr. Letch Corbett, and Mr. Austin Findell, one of the most popular young clerks in the Illinois Central freight department, are soon to be married, probably tonight, at the residence of the bride's mother. It was generally reported today that the wedding took place tonight, and this was traced to relatives. Those who know, however, said the matter was not definitely settled.

Mr. Frank Misere and Miss Eliza Knight will be married tomorrow at the residence of Mr. R. L. Beck, on South Ninth street. The bride-to-be is from Warren county, and Mr. Mis-ere, an employee of the N. C. & St.
L., is a stepson of yardmaster Jack Morth and.

The wedding of Chas. Johnson and Miss Lucinda House took place last night at Ragland.

CONSPIRACY AND BRIBERY.

Indictments Against City Officials Of Louisville.

Louisville, Feb. 27.—Indictments were this afternoon returned against Aldermen King, Leather, Trick, Brewer, Britt and Jenne for conspiracy and bribery, setting Edmunds for conspiracy and J. M. McKnight for conspiracy and bribery.

POLICE COURT.

Several Cases Called This Morning.

Several Contumacious Were Granted Defendants.

Judge Sanders had a short session of court this morning.

Northey Finley, one of Will Mc-Cutchen's farm hands, charged with jobbing Bud Grave in the head with a pitchfork, asked that his case be continued until Monday. It was so ordered. Finley is a prominent Old Fellow, and the latter order has employed Major Moss to defend him.

Leona Harris is charged with maliciously cutting a man named Fry, who has eluded the officers to keep from testifying against her. She was recognized this morning for her appearance Monday.

Gillie Travis, colored, was charged with shooting crops. Gillie is a woman, and swore she did not do it.
John McGeehee swore that she did, but three or four other witnesses swore that she did not. The warrant was dismissed.

Jim Lockhart, the man charged with being implicated in the attack on Jim Kirksey, near Stiles, several days ago, was arraigned before Judge Sanders this morning, but Kirksey still being unable to appear, the case was continued until next Monday week.

Laura Dixon, the corpulent colored woman who swore out a warrant against Henry Dixon, her husband, a day or two ago, charging him with beating her, sent word today that she did not desire to prosecute him.

FOR MURDER.

A Warrant Issued Against Robt.
McGill.

He Says His Wife Ran Towards Him With a Knife.

Robert McGill, the Ragland wife murderer, was taken before Justice Winchester yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, and a warrant charging him with murdering his wife, Rosa, was read to him. No bail was indorsed on the warrant, the crime not being bailable, and McGill was committed to jail. The warrant was served out before Justice Winchester afternoon by Constable J. W. Spence, who brought McGill to Paducah.
The warrant charging him with malicious shooting will be filed away.
McGill takes his troubles philosophically. It now develops that Mrs. McGill never had a miscarriage to result in death as was reported all over the county. She died of her wounds, according to the doctor's statement, and this changes the whole aspect of the case.

McGill, however, now claims that his wife was running towards him with a knife when he shot her to save his own life. His wife, it is now stated, repented before she died, and said her husband was not to blame, and that it was her fault that she shot her.

McGill asked that the examining trial be set for next Saturday, and unless Justice Tully qualifies as county judge before then the case will be tried before Justice Winchester.

ALMOST MIRACULOUS.

Wreck Narrowly Averted On the Illinois Central.

Two Fast Flyers Meet On the Main Line Near Bardwell.

A disastrous wreck was almost miraculously averted on the Illinois Central yesterday between Cairo and Fulton. It was extensively talked today among the railroad men here, the reason being that the train men involved are all well known in Paducah, some of them living here.

Conductor Tom Ruffin and Engineer Stanley were in charge of one passenger train, and Conductor Winston and Engineer Joe Randall in charge of another passenger train. One was going towards Fulton and the other towards Cairo, with a large number of passengers aboard. In addition to these it is a strange coincidence that there was a coach of railroad officials on each train.

Near Bardwell the two trains met on the main line. They barely touched, however, the pilots of the engines being slightly damaged and reared up by the contact.

It is not known how the train men happened to discover each other in time.

As this is one of the most unpardonable mistakes known to a railroad company, one or both crews will be discharged, unless it develops at the investigation that the dispatcher introduced in his orders, which is unlikely. The understanding is that one train "ran over its orders," or went beyond the point it was ordered to meet the other train.
Who is in fault remains to be seen.

The cold weather is doing more to check the rise in the river than anything else at this time. The water that is locked up in the little rivulets throughout the Ohio valley would of itself make a big river.

The legislature of Missouri must be composed of old bachelors. It has under consideration a law compelling the ladies to dispense with the high hat at theaters. One of the penalties provided is the confiscation of the hat. Shades of the departed Brummel! What are we coming to?

Some fellow who has not studied the situation sent out a dispatch from Jacksonville to the effect that the Venustiano and Albeniz had probably been ordered to Havana. When such a step as that is taken Mr. Cleveland will be no longer president, and Mr. Olney no longer secretary of state.

The extremely contradictory reports sent out with reference to the Cuban affairs leaves one in doubt as to everything. Today we are told it happened, from Havana. Tomorrow we are told from Washington it did not happen. We have about learned, however, to trust the Havana report as the more reliable.

There is not much doubt that the parade of Republican dissensions in Ohio made by the Democratic press had its influence in causing the announcement of Mr. Hanna's proposed appointment, if it did not lead to the appointment. In their anxiety to do the author of their recent defeat an injury, they probably played into his hand.

A large number of the state legislatures have felt called upon to pass laws against the execution of gold contracts. Such efforts to control the commercial transactions and preferences of the business world by legislation are worse than useless. They have been tried many times in many countries in the history of the world, and have always resulted in failure and disaster. There is no good reason why a man should not have for his merchandise or other property just as good money as he wants if he have a preference. If he have a preference and cannot get what he wants in exchange for what he has simply will not make an exchange at all, and thus legitimate business is interrupted. This is the only legitimate result of such legislation and it will always follow. The cure for the evils that exist is not to be found in efforts to compel the acceptance of a debased currency but in removing the doubt of the currency by keeping it all as good as gold and ceasing to advocate any other policy. Advocacy of free coinage of silver and gold contracts would no more be heard of.

Mr. Fay E. Hazen, of Memphis, a candidate for the Bolivian Mission. Mr. Hazen, who was formerly in the newspaper business in this city, and has many friends here, was by his manly and gentle bearing, is now a traveling salesman for a Memphis house with which he has been connected for seven years. He is a man of recognized ability and every way capable of filling creditably the post to which he aspires. He is a near relative of Gen. W. B. Hazen, of the Signal Service department and has many influential friends in various parts of the country who will actively interest themselves in his behalf, and it is believed his chances of receiving the favorable consideration of the President for the position are excellent. It is eminently fitting that to a country with which it is important to develop our trade relations and possibly negotiate reciprocity treaties a man of just such commercial instincts as

Mr. Hazen has developed should be accorded. Mr. Hazen's host of friends in Kentucky would be gratified to see his appointment to the position he seeks, and believe he would acquit himself with honor and serve his country with distinguished ability.

JULIO SANGUILLY has been confined in the Spanish prison for nearly two years, during the greater part of which time the state department has had his case under advisement and has been endeavoring to protect him by diplomatic correspondence from suffering the extreme penalty of the law, which the Spanish authorities so much desired to execute, notwithstanding the evidence against him was insufficient to convict in any unprejudiced court in the world. He was finally, when the Spanish government had taken all the time it desired and held him in prison until he had suffered punishment adequate to crimes a thousand times graver than he had committed, accorded a civil trial. In the meantime, and probably in view of his evidence in behalf of SangUILLY, his chief witness, Colima, was shot. When SangUILLY was finally brought to trial the evidence against him was trifling and was shown by his attorney to be totally inadequate to sustain the charges against him. The government prosecutor urged the court that it was necessary to convict him for moral effect. He was convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment. Notwithstanding full knowledge of all these facts the State Department continued to supplicate the Spanish throne for his release, instead of demanding it as a matter of right, and finally advised SangUILLY to withdraw his pending appeal to a higher court and accept a pardon on the condition that he shall leave the island and remain away during the interregnum. By thus accepting a pardon, instead of a vindication, SangUILLY, in effect, acknowledges his guilt and thus is deprived of any claim for damages against the Spanish government, a hardship which had never been imposed. Had SangUILLY been an English subject he would have been released at least eighteen months ago or Havana would have been wiped off the face of the earth. How little American citizenship means under Mr. Cleveland the world is learning rapidly.

THE SENATORIAL DISCUSSION

Extracts From Some of the Speeches Made Yesterday.

We give below some extracts from the discussion of the Cuban resolutions in the Senate, which serve to show how many of our great statesmen are impressed with the gravity of the situation.

Senator Allen said American citizens were being daily thrown into prisons. He bitterly denounced the alleged atrocities of the Spanish, and declared that Congress should not retum supine.

Mr. Morgan followed in the same vein on the resolution for the immediate release of SangUILLY.

Mr. Morgan felt that speedy action was essential. He reviewed the circumstances of SangUILLY's arrest and long confinement; the proof of his American citizenship; his freedom from complicity in the revolution; his several trials and other well known circumstances in the case.

MR. DANIEL.
"Our representative in Cuba has been indignantly insulted by the Spanish authorities," exclaimed Mr. Daniel, "and this country has been insulted by the Spanish authorities. I have been told by a high Spanish authority that the presentation of the SangUILLY case was a disgrace to the United States and to the American flag. If in fact of the United States had been sent to redress that insult it would have been sustained by every citizen of the United States."

"I decline to recognize the justice of imposing any condition on the release of an American citizen from unjust imprisonment. If SangUILLY, in despair, has submitted to the tyranny of Spain, and by reason of sickness, poverty and delay upon the part of his government to secure his rights, it is a humiliation to the United States that he has been compelled to withdraw as a condition of his release. If I represented SangUILLY I would telegraph him not to withdraw his appeal. There are enough people in this country to demand his unconditional release."

"If the counsel for SangUILLY has done that, he has done an inexcusable, unjust act." Mr. Hale sought to interpose.
"How can the Senator say that?" he asked his colleague.
"Because," answered Mr. Frye, with strong emphasis, "if his counsel has withdrawn that appeal that man is a convicted criminal liable to punishment, to imprisonment for life, and can only escape by pardon, and if he escapes by pardon then he loses for himself and family all claims for damages against Spain. That is what Spain has been contending for all the time. Now, we contend, on the other hand, that the man has been unjustly convicted; that he has not been treated according to treaty rights; that he has been treated against international law, and that Spain must deliver him up to us, and if I find any way, a ship of war would start forthwith to Havana to deliver him!"
This was followed by a wonderful burst of applause from the galleries.

bill that terminated on our right in a bluff overlooking the Tennessee river, and had failed to rest and rally our forces. Dan Smith and I were sent to the rear with the contents of our company to fill with water. The sun of that April evening was sweltering hot, as is often the case before a rain.

On our way down the hill we passed many dead bodies of Federal soldiers, when our attention was attracted by the groans of one poor fellow in the uniform of a Captain, who lay with one leg pressed out of shape under him; we approached him and asked if we could do anything for his relief. He replied that he would be grateful to us if we would straighten him out, as his leg was badly shot to pieces, and the pain was almost killing him. Another man was lying near him, desired water, and a third complained of the burning sun; we raked some dry leaves into a bed under the sheltering boughs of a neighboring tree, and placing the Captain on it asked him what else we could do for his comfort.

He then asked if we would not place the other two men who were members of his company, beside him, so that they might be able to assist one another. We enlarged the bed of leaves and placed the other two men on it by his side. In placing the captain in position I noticed that he wore a heavy gold watch chain. I suggested that he had better allow me to take it off and put it in his pocket, as some plunderer might come along and rob him of it. He insisted that I take it off and keep it, saying, "I am sure I can not recover, and I wish you to keep it for your kindness to us."

This I declined to do, but took the watch and guard and put them in his pocket; and then we took their canteens with our own to the branch and filled them with water, and on the way picked up some well filled haversacks, and on returning placed those with the filled canteens by their sides. The three were profuse in their expressions of gratitude, and asked us to write our names in their memoranda books, which we did. In returning their books and on their reading our names with that of our regiment, "Second Texas Infantry," they looked at us in astonishment, and asked if we were really Texans.

When we assured them we were, they said they were astonished, for they had prayed not to fall into the hands of Texans, as they believed that if they did they would be shown no mercy, and would be butchered like beasts. But here they were in the hands of the very troops they so much dreaded, and were being treated by them like brothers, and now that they knew what troops they were fighting, they were not astonished that they did not stand. To these remarks I replied: "Did not we fight your like men? And are not the brave always kind?" They answered: "You fought more like demons than like men; but surely your kindness cannot be questioned, and we cannot express our gratitude for it."

Just then we saw in the woods near by an ambulance of our corps; halting it, and placing them in it, we sent them to the rear. They were of the Illinois troops, and I think the Captain's name was Miller. After this, the 2nd Texas passed through the battles of Farmington, Iuka, Corinth, Hatchie Bridge, Chickasaw Bayou, and Fort Pemberton, and then was engaged in the siege of Vicksburg. On the night of the twelfth day, and the last day of May, about midnight a false alarm aroused to arms, and in a moment the sleeping lines became a blaze of fire from the throats of musketry and artillery and the whirling of "minnies."

Amidst the aimless firing, a ten inch schrapnel exploded in the trench where I stood, and three pieces of it found lodgment in my form, one severing my left foot from the ankle, another grazing my right hip joint, and the third grazed my backbone and lodged against my right shoulder blade. I was borne by my faithful comrades through the rain of lead and iron that deluged the battlefield, to the surgeon; and after this through the remainder of the forty-seven days of the conflict, endured a struggle for life against the intense summer heat, flying death missiles, starvation, and inexpressible pain until the surrender—the hardest of all to bear—came, and my brave and true comrades filed into my tent at the hospital, and with solemn mien and bowed heads and smothered "good byes," laid half of their small supply of coin upon my cot, and with warm press of the hand and hushed "God bless you," left me as they thought forever. All the wounded who were unable to go out of the city, were concentrated into one hospital in the old Vicksburg mansion on the hill, where they were under the supervision of a Federal surgeon and the surveillance of a Federal guard.

My spirits ran low, and my life-blood ebbed and flowed with feverish excitement as I thought, "There is not a friend that I know, or a willing hand that will help me!" when a guard who paced the old mansion hall, halted at the door of the ward where I lay and asked if there were any Texas soldiers in the room. Jeff Dearbon, who lay on a cot near the door, replied that there was.

"Are there any of the 2d Texas Infantry here, do you know?" Jeff answered that there was and pointed to my bed.
He approached me, and asked: "Do you belong to the 2d Texas Infantry?"
I answered, "I do."
"Were you in the battle of Shiloh?"

Reform Mayor of Chicago.

Hon. George B. Swift Among the Endorsers of Paine's Celery Compound.

Hon. George B. Swift, Chicago's reform mayor, is one of the thousands who endorse the one great remedy that makes people well, where all other remedies fail of either, or at best simply give temporary relief.

Judge Powers, Congressman Meredith of Virginia, Congressman Grant, Assistant United States Attorney John C. Chaper, Chief Post Office Inspector M. D. Wheeler, Congressman Dell and Neil, Lieut. McAllister, and many others who are fully and fairly convinced of the merits of Paine's celery compound, have publicly endorsed the marvelous remedy.

These, and the thousands of other hearty testimonials that have recently been sent to the proprietor of Paine's celery compound, are simply an index of what this most wonderful remedy is doing in every State of the Union, and in every city and village.

It makes people well!

Men like these, who have won life at their work are "run down" the confidence of their fellow citizens in the weightiest affairs, and are jealous of their reputations for sound judgment, living watched the splendid results from Paine's celery compound in their own families, and knowing exactly the invigorating effect that any sick person may expect from this great nerve regulator and blood purifier, are among the first to enthusiastically and thankfully recommend the remedy to others for the public good they may do.

It makes the blood pure and capable of carrying an abundance of brain and nerve elements to the weakened parts, and is thus able to permanently rid the body of sleeplessness, nervousness, neuritis and dyspepsia.

Men and women who almost live at their work are "run down" and sleepless and incapacitated from doing their best work because of dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, neuritis, and a host of other ailments, invariably find a permanent relief in Paine's celery compound.

Dyspepsia, persistent headaches, and disordered liver need prompt attention. In every case a cure in Paine's celery compound is the most earnest, conscientious remedy persons out of health can employ. Its life-giving effect upon "run-down" and debilitated blood is nothing short of marvelous.

Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., L. L. D., brought to the study of nervous disorders and diseases of debility extraordinary professional enthusiasm. He and his able co-laborers concentrated upon the discovery of an accurate remedy for these diseases all their energy. Paine's celery compound is used by the best physicians in their own homes, and prescribed to sufferers from all nervous diseases. It is within the reach of everyone.

Men like these, who have won life at their work are "run down" and sleepless and incapacitated from doing their best work because of dyspepsia, rheumatism, neuralgia, neuritis, and a host of other ailments, invariably find a permanent relief in Paine's celery compound.
